Dear Advisor:

The San Diego Association of Black Journalists (SDABJ) is proud to offer our annual SDABJ Journalism Scholarship Program to assist San Diego area high school and college students who are interested in journalism to advance their education.

SDABJ will offer several $1,000 scholarships to area high school students. Another scholarship, the Ozzie Roberts scholarship, will be offered to a college student who shows promise in journalism. Applicants must be U. S. citizens with financial need, who attend or plan to attend universities or colleges and major in print or broadcast journalism, English or Mass Communications. The scholarship will be nonrenewable.

The application requires that candidates indicate how the students plan to ensure that the African-American community's voice be heard in the mainstream media. Applicants must receive two letters of recommendation from a school administrator, counselor or teacher, community organization or church. If the applicant is less than 18 years of age, a parent or guardian must sign the application. This will indicate that they approve the release of the student's name or photo for promotion of the SDABJ Journalism Scholarship program.

Completed applications must be received no later than March 26, 2010. The finalists will be contacted and interviewed by our scholarship panel. Our intent is to announce the winners no later than April 9. Finalists will be contacted with a date and time to be interviewed by our scholarship panel.

The San Diego Association of Black Journalists is one of the newer chapters of the National Association of Black Journalists (NABJ). NABJ is an organization of journalists, students and communications professionals that provides quality programs and services to and advocates on behalf of black journalists worldwide. NABJ is the largest organization of journalists of color in the world. In 2003, SDABJ was honored with the NABJ Salute of Excellence, "Chapter of the Year" award.
